THE STORY: Four lonely women go to Speare Island on a fishing bont, the Simpateo. One of them. Ben Congrove, is told by Higuel Onk, skipper of the bont, not to go. He gives her a mickelplated pistol to draw attention from the antonatic which bistrained eyes see concealed under her clothing. On the island Hen, along with Agnes Firth, Mabel Jones and Lilly Warren, are greeted by Henry Gough Harding, owner of the island. Bach of the women carries a letter from the Lonelyhearts! Matrimental and Correspondence Club as credentials.

He picked up her letter. "So. Miss Bea Cosgreve. Spinster. Schoolteacher for 20 years. Hair dark. Eyes hazel, I would have said green. Weight 125. Heigh five feet five. Age 40. Excellent character, moral, trustworthy and dependable. Hmmm." He looked at the gun again, tossed it in a short arc out into the water. "So." He picked up another letter "Mrs. Lilly Warren."

Bea watched his long fingers stir through the contents of the four bags. He fished out the tiny revolver.

"I acquired this island. Some of you may remember the newspaper 'Eccentric Millionaire o Found New Eden.' People laughed at me, but I poured a portion of my money into Speare Island. The boat you came on has been under my charter. For over a year now I have had crews of men working. Putting op ounaings, starting the gardens, the locks of sheep, bringing in supplies and storing them away safely. These candles we use were made here, represent a first step in my desire to make Speare Island independent of outside help. You saw the last of the crews leave. We are far from the path of planes and steamers. Everything now is up to us." He paused, frowned.

"Now, a word about my money. Even if a marriage is consummated, my wife cannot hope to get any of my money by leaving or outliving me. The money stays with Speare Island. It is tied up legally with the island's future.

THERE were nods and murmurs from the women.

"Good. We shall not mention it again. For you four, the next three months can be looked upon as a period of trial and adjustment. You must prove to me you can shed your old ways of life. True, that may be easy since you were neither happy nor successful. Here, each will have certain tasks. At first we will rotate these tasks each week. By trial we will determine where talents lie.
